TOYS FOR THIS GENERATION, TREES FOR THE NEXT

SVLK wood

Regeneration

Earth friendly

In the rich red earth of Java, our story begins among rolling green valleys and the gentle rhythm of renewal. Every Tender Leaf toy starts life in the shade of rubberwood plantations, where trees are nurtured for years to yield their natural latex. When their cycle is complete, we give these trees a new purpose, reclaiming the wood to craft timeless, heirloom quality toys. This responsible use of resources is certified by the SVLK (Sistem Verifikasi Legalitas Kayu), Indonesia's national timber legality assurance system, ensuring that every piece of wood we use comes from sustainably managed sources.

For every tree we reclaim, a new one is planted — part of a continuous programme of regeneration that sustains both the landscape and the livelihoods of those who tend it. Local communities work in vibrant nurseries nestled in the Javanese hills, cultivating young saplings that will one day grow tall in the lush, verdant plantations. The cycle of growth and renewal not only protects the natural beauty of the land but also supports the people who call it home. In every toy, you'll find a piece of this story of earth, care, and craftsmanship shaped by nature and made to last.

Our factory in Indonesia are deeply committed to protecting Indonesia's natural resources and work with SVLK reclaimed rubber wood, a by-product of the latex industry. Rubber trees, first planted by dutch settlers over 300 years ago, are a valuable economy for East Java. They are cut down after 25 years when they can no longer produce latex. By using wood from these trees, we minimize waste and support sustainability as well as local economy. By utilising reclaimed wood and not sourcing forestry wood we ensure a totally sustainable material for our toys.

Heart and home

From raw wood to the finished product, every single stage of production happens under the same roof in Indonesia. Our family-run factory operates with high standards of training, wellbeing and respect and provides dependable employment for hundreds of local villagers. With over 30 years of experience we have become one of the world leaders in wooden toy manufacturing. We have been awarded the ICTI and the ISO 9001 seal of approval and strive to maintain ethically high standards throughout our organisation. In addition, regular audits take place by the ICTI, ensuring the highest of social and working standards.

Safety first

We know toys are fun to play with, but we have to be sure they are completely safe and durable. We use non-toxic paints, making our toys completely safe and kind to the planet. All of our toy products meet the European and American standard safety of toys according to EN71, ASTM and ISO. Once each toy has been hand-painted, assembled and checked, it is wrapped in paper and packaged in recycled cardboard. We care a lot about being as sustainable to our lovely planet as we can be, and we are close to eliminating single-use plastic in all our packaging.

The human touch

All our products are evocative of our own childhood and watching our children explore the world around them has truly inspired our design thinking. From baby, through to nursery and onto school, we design toys that can be engaged by the whole family and passed onto the next generation. Our design team in London are drawing and imagining beautiful new products every day, which are then turned into endearing wooden toys by our talented sample team. They are then refined to reach the highest standards of durability, play value, and safety.

BUILD YOUR STORE

Tender Leaf Toys make a beautiful addition to any children's concept store or gift shop.

With hundreds of products across fourteen ranges, our distinctive designs and sophisticated and coordinated colour palette create a strong, cohesive brand presence in store.
